

FRONTIERVILLE GAME GUIDE

Crack Frontierville Cheat Codes and Become the Ultimate Landlord

Cheating is not always bad—at least in the very popular Facebook application Frontierville.

Frontierville is the hottest thing online. Millions of people who use the social networking site Facebook have found this Zynga game a lot more fun and better than its counterparts. As a matter of fact, Frontierville has already reached 5 million users in only 2 weeks.

This goes to show how good this application is.

Frontierville is similar in a number of things with Farmville, another hugely popular Zynga game. The objective of the game is to convert and develop a plot of land overrun with weeds and unwanted trees into a productive plantation. You will need to make sure that animals like chickens are fed regularly and that you tend and harvest your crops at the right time.

You will also be required from time to time to finish specific tasks, like building cabins or finding lost sheep which you should feed. There are corresponding gold coins, bonuses, and energy for every task you finish.

However, due to initial energy limits, finishing required tasks may become a challenge. The most common problem Frontierville players experience is they run out of energy bars during tasks. Since you will have a limited amount of energy, you will need to conserve it for more important tasks. This means you shouldn't start clearing rocks and cutting down trees until you are notified because if you do, then you'll run out of energy right away and you won't be able to finish your farm duties.

What most players do is to wait for days until their energy is replenished and then go back to perform their tasks. But that would be a total waste of time! Why wait when there is a way to increase not only your energy but gold coins and experience as well?

Hardcore fans and players have come across a Frontier cheat code that allows them to go around this kind of problems. And it works! A lot of new players have already managed to triple their gold coins and sustain their energy in performing farm duties without having to wait for days.

As a result, they were able to speedily cultivate their land, harvest crops, raise animals, build properties, and invite neighbors to do work for them.

Wouldn't you want to do the same? With Frontier Tycon, the ultimate Frontierville cheat code made by a fan for fans, you will become the ultimate landlord sooner than you think.

Frontierville Tricks—How to Get More Energy

In Frontierville, energy is a very valuable and scarce resource. You will need it to work. Without it, you will not be able to harvest crops, chop woods, or feed the animals.

However, energy is easily lost. Each time you do something you eat up one energy. This means you can run out of it if you continue to work on certain things. Fortunately, there are different ways on how you can regain or increase your energy.

Different Frontierville tricks will show you various tips on prolonging your gameplay by sustaining your energy. Here are some of them:

1) Eating

Naturally, eating will give you energy. You can get food by planting and harvesting crops and animals. You can use them to buy meals from the marketplace. There are 7 meals in the market you can choose from. They range from light snacks to all you can eat meals.

2) Taking a rest and waiting

When you take a rest for five minutes, you regain 1 energy point. The longer you take a rest, the more energy you will earn back.

3) Sending and receiving free gifts

There is a Free Gifts area where you can pick items to send to your friends. You can send meals to your friends or ask them to give you one. These free items can give your energy bar a boost, so don't take them for granted.

4) Completing collections

Every time you finish a task, you can get bonus items. These items, when completed, can yield items that can include energy boosts.

5) Keep working

Working has its rewards. By working on your farm—tilling the land, harvesting crops, and feeding your animals. Even clobbering snakes and rats and clearing rocks from your land will yield energy in the form of a lightning bolt.

Most eager players look for quick ways to boost their energy. This is why they go crazy over Frontierville cheat codes. Cheats provide them a way to get ahead their friends and become the ultimate landlord.

Frontierville Help—A Beginner's Guide

After the success of Farmville, Zynga has released Frontierville, another Facebook application that took the online community by storm. In just two weeks, Frontierville managed to gather about 5 million users, which goes to show how addictive this new game is.

But for those who haven't tried planting and harvesting in Farmville, the question is "how do you play Frontierville?"

It's easy. The main objective of the game is to cultivate a barren land and build your homestead. You will have some animals and crops to take care of initially and you need to make sure that they are fed and harvested regularly. Part of your every day duty is to clear rocks and trees and complete any tasks that come up. Basically, you will need to make sure your land is productive and suitable to raise your family.

Just like any game, you will encounter several problems, like running out of energy bars or not being able to buy stuff from the market because you don't have enough coins. Beginners find these things frustrating, which is why they scour the internet to find Frontierville help, which is, fortunately, available in a lot of places.

Forums, blogs, and fan sites are the usual places where players look for Frontierville help. People who've been playing the game longer can provide sound advice and tips on how to get around some difficulties in the game.

Any beginner should bear these tips in mind:

- Collect as much gold coins as you can. You can get them by completing certain tasks like feeding the chickens, harvesting the crops, and clearing rocks from your land.
- Gather bonus items whenever you can. During the game, you will be notified when there is a task you need to do. Upon completion, you will get bonus items, like paint, which you can use later to paint your house.
- Conserve your energy. At the start of the game, you only have a limited energy bar. Each task eats up your energy and it will only be replenished after you eat or have taken a rest. Don't clear rocks until you're notified because you may not have enough energy when a new task comes up.
- Be active and utilize the marketplace. This is where you can get cool bonus items from your crops.
- Invite as many neighbors as you can. Eventually, you can get your neighbors to do farm work for you. You won't need to lift a finger to manage your land.
- Be on the lookout for Frontierville help and guides. These "cheat codes" will help you play the game faster and easier. You can learn tips and tricks on how to get more gold coins, bonus items, and experience.

- Playing Frontierville is fun. But what's more fun is if you can get ahead of your friends and neighbors—your frontier is a lot more productive and nice-looking than all your peers.

To do that, you need to have the best Frontierville help you can get. If you want to be the envy of your friends, then you need to check this out right now.

Frontierville Strategies for Serious Online Gamers

Do you want to know how to be good at Frontierville?

To do really well in Frontierville, one has to have the best Frontierville strategies. How else will you be able to transform a wild, uncultivated land to a very productive plantation without some plan?

Even though you've had some experience in online Facebook applications like Farmville or Farmtown, you can't expect to do well in this latest Zynga game without thinking about how to raise your animals properly and till your land.

It's like going to war. You can't just go into it without weapons. You need to stop and think about your plan of attack. The same applies with playing Frontierville. You have to consider all the steps you're going to take.

Here are some Frontierville strategies that can help you get ahead of your friends:

- Don't start clearing rocks and cutting unwanted trees unless you are notified. Why? Initially, you will only have a limited energy bar. It lessens every time you do something like feeding the chickens or weeding out the grass. When you run out of energy doing such tasks, you may not have enough when you receive a notification that you need to complete a task.
- Get as much gold coins and bonus items. Each time you finish a task, you will be rewarded with gold coins and various items. Get them as fast as you can. Saving up on items and gold coins will help you gain experience and do well in the game.
- Don't be afraid to clobber rodents, snakes, and other animals because they will yield coins and bonus items. You will definitely make use of them in the future.
- Make the most out of the marketplace. This where you can get items that will come handy.
- Always harvest your crops lest they wither and die. Unlike the animals who won't starve to death even though you are being told to feed them, the crops can wither if left unattended for a long time. Be aware of when your crops ripen.
- Get as much neighbors as you can. You can get them to work for you when you don't have the time to tend your land. Friendly neighbors are always ready to extend a helping hand.
- Without any strategy, you will find yourself at a lost, not knowing what to do. You will be spending a lot of time without getting any result. You don't want that to happen, do you?

Want to Know How to Get More Cash on Frontierville? Then This Is for You

Coins play a great role in Frontierville. If you want to make your frontier town as one of the best, you will need to have a lot of coins. Remember that these are required in building a very successful and wealthy town.

You may not realize it at first, but having a lot of coins in Frontierville is very important. You can get coins as rewards for finishing certain tasks. But since your ability to complete tasks depend on how much energy you have left, you may not be able to gather as much coins as you'd like.

So what are the quick ways on how to get more cash on Frontierville?

Here are some tips on how to do it:

1) Harvest crops repeatedly

Every task will yield coins. Growing crops and harvesting them is one of the most efficient ways to earn coins in Frontierville. You can plant different types of crops. Different plants have respective amounts. If you plant a variety of crops, you can get more coins. One tip is to harvest plants that ripen easily in a repeated manner.

Another tip on how to get more cash on Frontierville using your crops is to place a "Tend This" sign next to your crops. Your neighbors will see this and, hopefully, give you a hand.

2) Clearing your area

Clearing rocks, skulls, and boulders will yield some coins. This, however, may not give you as much money as you want because clearing usually gives you only a coin. Nevertheless, it's still a way to earn coins.

3) Take care of your animals

Feeding your animals will reward you with coins. Animals serve as a really good investment because they are continuously hungry. The more times you feed them, the more coins you can get.

4) Complete collections

Every time you complete a task, like feeding your animals, harvesting your crops, or clearing your land, you will receive collectible items. They can be anything that is of use in the farm. Collect five of their kind and you can get more coins.

5) Seek the help of your neighbors

Getting your neighbor to help you around the farm will give you more coins. Not only will you earn coins, you will also establish relationships with your neighbors.

Don't neglect gold coins because you will need them. There are several ways on how to get more cash on Frontierville. They're everywhere. But there is one guide that will show you effective tips and tricks on how you can do it quickly.
